

How to help your child in Media Studies

Subject: Media Studies

	How to help your child
Year 10	• Check the home learning tasks on Show My Homework regularly to ensure homework is being completed. • Students will also have quizzes to complete throughout the year to help them memorise key information for the set products. • There are many resources saved on the Google Drive that can be used by your child to complete their homework and aid their revision. • Encourage your child to complete extension and challenge tasks. • Look through your child's exercise book regularly; a useful activity is to make a list of misspelt words and encourage your child to use a dictionary to find the correct spelling and practice these until she can spell them correctly. • Encourage your child to respond to teacher feedback, make improvements to their work and catch up on anything missed. • Encourage your child to spend time revising from the fact sheets. • Talking to your child about their learning in the topic we are studying and testing them on their knowledge will help them to commit it to their long-term memory. • Creating their own quizzes and flash cards will help them to memorise key information. Quizlet and Kahoot! are both excellent online resources your child could use for this strategy. • Whilst watching TV programmes and films together, encourage your child to share the concepts and skills they have learned in Media Studies by applying their knowledge to what you are watching together; for example, they could explain the camera techniques being used and the desired effect on audiences. • Encourage your child to read and watch a range of media texts, including newspapers, radio programmes, and films that are age appropriate. • Learning keywords for the examination questions will help your child understand what the question is asking them to do. • Revision clocks are a good way to summarise a range of information for a particular topic. • Drawing mind maps will help your child make links between key ideas. • Your child would benefit from making their own media texts, for example: • Creating a music video, using iMovie

	• Using Phonto or Publisher to make print products • The following websites are useful: • Essentialmediatheory.com • 40 Days to Learn Film Mark Cousins on vimeo.com • BBC Online – www.bbc.co.uk • Channel 4 – www.channel4.com • B.F.I. – www.bfi.org.uk • Film Education – www.filmeducation.org • IMDb – www.imdb.com • British Board of Film Classification – www.bbfc.co.uk • Independent Television Commission – www.itc.co.uk • Broadcasting Standards Commission – www.bsc.org.uk • Press Complaints Commission – www.pcc.org.uk • Advertising Standards Authority – www.asa.org.uk • National Readership Survey – www.nrs.co.uk • Audience research information Mark Kermode's Secrets of Cinema on BBC iPlayer • The Eduqas website has many useful resources: https://www.eduqas.co.uk/qualifications/media-studies-gcse/#tab_overview • You could purchase the following text books to support your child's home studies: ○ WJEC/Eduqas GCSE Media Studies Revision Guide Paperback – 30 April 2019 ○ ISBN-13 : 978-1911208891 ○ WJEC/Eduqas GCSE Media Studies: Student Book Paperback – 14 May 2018 ○ ISBN-13 : 978-1911208488
Year 11	• Check the home learning tasks on Show My Homework regularly to ensure homework is being completed. • Students will also have quizzes to complete throughout the year to help them memorise key information for the set products. • There are many resources saved on the Google Drive that can be used by your child to complete their homework and aid their revision. • Encourage your child to complete extension and challenge tasks. • Look through your child's exercise book regularly; a useful activity is to make a list of misspelt words and encourage your child to use a dictionary to find the correct spelling and practice these until she can spell them correctly. • Encourage your child to respond to teacher feedback, make improvements to their work and catch up on anything missed.

- Encourage your child to spend time revising from the fact sheets.
- Talking to your child about their learning in the topic we are studying and testing them on their knowledge will help them to commit it to their long-term memory.
- Creating their own quizzes and flash cards will help them to memorise key information. Quizlet and Kahoot! are both excellent online resources your child could use for this strategy.
- Whilst watching TV programmes and films together, encourage your child to share the concepts and skills they have learned in Media Studies by applying their knowledge to what you are watching together; for example, they could explain the camera techniques being used and the desired effect on audiences.
- Encourage your child to read and watch a range of media texts, including newspapers, radio programmes, and films that are age appropriate.
- Learning keywords for the examination questions will help your child understand what the question is asking them to do.
- Revision clocks are a good way to summarise a range of information for a particular topic.
- Drawing mind maps will help your child make links between key ideas.
- Your child would benefit from making their own media texts, for example:
 - Creating a music video, using iMovie
 - Using Phonto or Publisher to make print products
- The following websites are useful:
 - Essentialmediatheory.com
 - 40 Days to Learn Film Mark Cousins on vimeo.com
 - BBC Online – www.bbc.co.uk
 - Channel 4 – www.channel4.com
 - B.F.I. – www.bfi.org.uk
 - Film Education – www.filmeducation.org
 - IMDb – www.imdb.com
 - British Board of Film Classification – www.bbfc.co.uk
 - Independent Television Commission – www.itc.co.uk
 - Broadcasting Standards Commission – www.bsc.org.uk
 - Press Complaints Commission – www.pcc.org.uk
 - Advertising Standards Authority – www.asa.org.uk
 - National Readership Survey – www.nrs.co.uk
 - Audience research information Mark Kermode's Secrets of Cinema on BBC iPlayer
- The Eduqas website has many useful resources:
https://www.eduqas.co.uk/qualifications/media-studies-gcse/#tab_overview

- You could purchase the following text books to support your child's home studies:

- WJEC/Eduqas GCSE Media Studies Revision Guide Paperback – 30 April 2019
- ISBN-13 : 978-1911208891
- WJEC/Eduqas GCSE Media Studies: Student Book Paperback – 14 May 2018

ISBN-13 : 978-1911208488